Wedding of the Presidents Daughter.

Every Country in the World Represented last Saturday.

Washington D. C. Feb. 17, 1906.

The wheels of business stopped in Washington to-day while the daughter of the President was led to the altar. Miss Alice Roosevelt was married to Representative Nicholas Longworth at noon by Bishop Satterlee and all of Washington not bidden to the White House for the ceremony watched and waited while the nuptials were performed. It was the most notable wedding that the Capital has ever known. Miss Roosevelt was the third White House bride. This in itself was a distinction. But never before has a White House wedding attracted such attention. Never before has there been such distinguished gathering of society people in the mansion and certainly never before has there been such an array of wedding gifts.

Every country in the civilized world even if China is included in that category was represented in the tributes that were showered on the bride. Representative Longworth too was remembered in a way. But it was not his day. The young Ohio member who has already won for himself a very fair reputation as a new Congressman was distinctly not in the running. He was an adjunct to the ceremony but that was all and that was as it should be. Miss Alice was the object of interest of the day and continued to be till the couple quietly stole away toward evening in an electric brougham for the honeymoon, which it is understood will be spent in a country homestead just outside of Washington.

The Executive offices at the White House were closed all day. There was no business transacted for the first time perhaps since Mr. Roosevelt has been President. Promptly at 10 A. M. the gates of the White House were closed and thereafter there was no entrance without one of the magic admission cards. There were a little short of a thousand guests present, a gathering that crowded to the utmost the East Room where the ceremony was performed. Only ten representatives of the press were present, the three members of the local papers the three association and four personal newspaper friends of Representative Longworth and the President. But society was represented from all quarters of the country. There were the members of the two families, the justice of the Supreme Court and members of the Cabinet, the members of the Senate who have formerly held cabinet positions, and the general run of invited guests who included most of the people of prominence whose names usually appear in the society columns of the New York papers.

The wedding ceremony was performed by Bishop Satterlee, standing under an arch of palms on the west side of the East Room. There would have been a jungle of greenery about the improvised altar but for the firm protest made by the bride-to-be yesterday. She had put her foot down firmly against having the whole scene shut off by palms and ferns from the very people who had come to witness it and at her order the taller plants had been moved back to the wall so that there was a reasonable clear space in front.

The service was brief but impressive as the words and the occasion warranted. The party moved almost immediately afterward to the breakfast room where there was a buffet luncheon for the most of the guests in the Blue Room. The newly-married couple, President and Mrs. Roosevelt and about sixty of the guests sat down to the wedding breakfast in the Green Room. The breakfast lasted well into the afternoon. Then came the most interesting and least advertised part of the performance. Mr. Longworth and his bride quietly effaced themselves and left the house in an electric brougham, one of a dozen precisely alike that were parked back of the White House. In it they drove away to the country where they will spend the honeymoon.

Hartford Coal and Oil Company.

A number of persons, who own about 3,000 acres of land immediately North of Rough River met at the Court House last Saturday and organized the Hartford Coal and Oil Company.

The following officers were selected: President, C. M. Barnett; Vice-President, W. N. Stevens; Secretary, S. T. Barnett; Treasurer, Rowan Holbrook.

This land is already known to be rich in coal deposits, but in order to ascertain the exact location, depth, thickness of stratas, etc., it was determined to make a number of tests in the near future by drilling. Messrs. S. T. Barnett, C. P. Keown and Berry Rial were appointed a committee to arrange for and have charge of this work.

KILLED

New County Measure Indefinitely Postponed.

Which Means That it is Asleep For Good.

At a meeting of the Kentucky Statutes Committee of the House of Representatives Wednesday morning by a vote of 6 to 2, the Beard bill proposing to create "Beekham" county out of parts of Ohio, Butler, Grayson and Breckenridge counties was indefinitely postponed, which action is but an easy way of killing, as it will not be heard of again this session. It was given a dose of morphine, instead of being hit with an axe. However, it will answer all purposes. It was clearly demonstrated that its creation would be a travesty upon justice and that it would not stand the test in any court.

Too much credit cannot be given Messrs. Crowe, Taylor, Woodward, Keown, Holbrook, DeWees and others who went to Frankfort and gave the committee the true situation. Endless expense and worry have been saved to those who would have been effected by the proposed new county.

CANE RUN.

Feb. 19.—Elder J. W. Bristo, of Fordsville, filled his regular appointment at this place Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Lula Saubach, Friedaland, entered Bowling Green College today.

Mrs. Mary Halloway will begin a spring school at Horse Branch next Monday.

Sam Jamison and family have moved into their new house.

J. T. Daniel and wife and daughter, of Olanton, attended church at this place Sunday.

Miss Iva Cummings, of near Salem, is visiting her cousin near Leitchfield.

Misses Annie Myers and Minnie Wilson, who have been visiting relatives at this place, returned home yesterday.

Louise White and family, of near Salem, have moved to Sunnydale.

The farmers are beginning to sow oats.

Jimmie White is visiting relatives in this community.

Miss Leona Wilson is visiting Miss Louella St. Clair, Rosine.

The citizens of Horse Branch have taken steps to vote whiskey out of the town on March 3, 1906. Hoping and trusting that the town will be free from whiskey and that each home will become a house of prayer, and that good may be accomplished by Almighty God.

Total Indebtedness of Ohio County.

As Shown by the Records January 1st, 1906.

The following report of a special committee appointed by the Ohio county Fiscal court to report the total indebtedness of the county, January 1st, 1906, will be interesting to our readers in view of the oft repeated statement during the late campaign, that the county would be out of debt by that date.

"To the Fiscal Court of Ohio county:—We, the undersigned committee having been appointed by an order of this court a committee to ascertain the amount that Ohio county was indebted on January 1st, 1906, beg leave to submit the following report:

We have carefully examined all the order books and claims against the county including the outstanding bonds and contract for bridges and find that the total indebtedness of the county is $24,182.46.

We further find that the Sheriff of Ohio county, Cal P. Keown, has made a full and complete settlement of the revenue due the county for the year 1905 and that on the 11th day of January, 1906, after the Sheriff had paid into the Treasury all that was due the county there was a balance on that date in the hands of the Treasurer of $775.02; that this sum has been paid out by the Treasurer on claims due out of the levy of 1905 and which claims thus paid are not included in the above indebtedness of $24,182.46.

All of which is respectfully submitted. This February 19, 1906.

S. K. COX,

State of Kentucky, ss.

County of Ohio, ss.

I, W. S. Tinsley, Clerk of the Ohio County Court, do certify that I am the duly elected, qualified and acting clerk of said court. That I have carefully examined the debts and claims against the county as appears on the order or claims books in my office and I certify that the above report of the committee is correct and shows the indebtedness of said county.

Given under my hand this February 18th, 1906.

Republican Office Holders.

[Tomkinsville Herald.] Republican office holders are as a rule a credit to party and to country. The smooth economical and successful running of any government depends very largely on its representatives of all classes scattered throughout the country. No sooner did the Republican party take over reigns of National Government nearly fifty years ago than it proceeded under the immortal Lincoln to put in its best men to discharge the people's services. The principle actuating the imperishable emancipator was to get the best men to serve all the people not merely the best man to serve the party. Big-hearted and broad-minded Abraham Lincoln knew that the party man in office who best serves the country will also best serve the party. Nor did Lincoln allow personal considerations to interfere with selection for office. Take the one case of Salmon P. Chase of Ohio whom he made Chief Justice of the United States. Many others might be mentioned but the Chase is very pertinent and striking as it is pertinent.

Chase had one leading ambition to which all others were subordinate to be President of the United States. While a member of Lincoln's official household as Secretary of the Treasury he plotted and schemed for the Republican Presidential nomination in 1864. Lincoln was aware all along of the underhand course pursued by his Secretary but bore with it patiently till Chase having in a moment of pique resigned his Sec-

CAUGHT BY THE GRIP-- RELEASED BY PE-RU-NA.

"The World of Medicine Recognizes Grip as Epidemic Catarrh."—Medical Talk.

A Southern Judge Cured.

Judge Horatio J. Goss, Hartwell, Ga., writes: "Some five or six years ago I had a very severe spell of grip which left me with systemic catarrh. A friend advised me to try your Peruna, which I did, and was immediately benefited and cured. The third bottle completed the cure."—H. J. Goss.

Cured in a Few Weeks.

Miss Jean Cowgill, Griswold Opera House, Troy, N. Y., is the leading lady with the Aubrey Stock Co. She writes the following:

"During the past winter of 1901, I suffered for several weeks from a severe attack of grip, which left a serious catarrhal condition of the throat and head.

"Some one suggested Peruna. As a last resort, after wasting much time and money on physicians, I tried the remedy faithfully, and in a few weeks was as well as ever."—Jean Cowgill.

Grip Resulted in Catarrh.

Miss Alice Bielke, Treasurer Young Women's Society of the Lutheran Church, Menasha, Wis., writes:

"I gratefully acknowledge the good that Peruna did me after I had been sick with la grippe which left me in a very weak and emaciated condition, with catarrhal trouble of the head and ears.

"My mother suggested that I take it to build up my strength and rid myself of the troublesome catarrh, and it acted with wonderful speed.

"I was able to resume my work inside of two months and I am in splendid health now."—Alice Bielke.

One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotic of any kind. Peruna is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Peruna does not produce temporary results,—it cures.

WEST VIRGINIA

Coal Company Invades Ohio County.

Buy Thirty Thousand Acres and Six Hundred Men to be Put to Work at Once.

A strong company of West Virginia capitalists headed by Senator Davis, late Democratic candidate for Vice-President, has acquired the mineral right to thirty thousand acres of Ohio county land along Green River beginning with the old "Jim" town property, and extending to the Clay Taylor land near Rochester. Great activity will be displayed by this company in the early spring and it is said no less than six hundred men will be employed. Their own tow boats and barges will be brought from the West Virginia fields and the tow fleets will be made up for the South at the mouth of Green river.

It is claimed that this coal is as good or better than that which the company is now working in West Virginia and that it is one thousand miles nearer the market to begin with. If it is found to make good coke a system of coke furnaces will also be installed.

The site of the new town will be on the Clay Taylor farm, half of which has been bought out right for the purpose. Almost from the beginning it will be one of the largest towns in Ohio county.

LaGrippe Is Epidemic Catarrh.

It spares no class or nationality. The cultured and the ignorant, the aristocrat and the pauper, the masses and the classes are alike subject to la grippe. None are exempt—all are liable.

Grip is well named. The original French term, la grippe, has been shortened by the busy American to read "grip."

Without intending to do so, a new word has been coined that exactly describes the case. As if some hideous giant with awful grip had clutched us in its fatal clasp.

Men, women, children, whole towns and cities are caught in the baneful grip of a terrible monster. Have you the grip? Or, rather, has the grip got you? If so, read the following letters.

These testimonials speak for themselves as to the efficacy of Peruna in cases of la grippe or its after-effects:

Saved by Pe-ru-na.

Hon. James R. Guill is one of the oldest and most esteemed men of Omaha, Neb. He has done much to make it what it is, serving on public boards a number of times. He endorses Peruna in the following words:

"I am 68 years old, am hale and hearty and Peruna has helped me attain it. Two years ago I had la grippe—my life was despaired of. Peruna saved me."—J. R. Guill.

A Relative of Abraham Lincoln.

Mr. Silas S. Lincoln, who resides at 913 I street, N. W., Washington, D. C., has the honor of being third cousin to Abraham Lincoln. He writes:

"I had la grippe five times before using your medicine. Four years ago I began the use of Peruna, since which time I have not been troubled with that disease."

"I can now do as much work at my desk as I ever could in my life. I have gained more than ten pounds in weight."—S. S. Lincoln.

Pe-ru-na Not Only Cured La Grippe but Benefited the Whole System.

Miss Alice M. Dressler, 1313 N. Bryant Ave., Minneapolis, Minn., writes:

"Last spring I suffered from la grippe and was partially cured, but the bad after-effects remained through the summer and somehow I did not get strong as I was before."

"One of my college friends who was visiting me asked me to try Peruna and I did so and found it all and more than I had expected."

"It not only cured me of the catarrh but restored me to perfect health, and built up the entire system."—Alice M. Dressler.

A TRAMP'S STORY

Of an Awful Plot to Awaken the National Conscience of the Evil of Excessive Wealth.

Narrows, Ky., Feb. 13.—The vapors of a tramp are rarely worth repeating, but this fellow's story is a fabric woven of such strange and weird material that I thought it might not be wholly wanting in interest for your readers.

In a manner indicating a confirmed habit of begging he approached me with "will you give me a stamp sir?"

I passed out the red square, and he continued, "Its to my old mother sir, the only soul on earth who cares a cuss whether I am on the ground or under it."

But for the type of his intelligence and the cleanliness of his wellworn unmatched clothes he looked like the common everyday railroad tramp. Fifty-five thereabouts and hair and beard some weeks grown one hair to the other white.

"It was kind of you, sir," he continued, "and I hope you may find your reward in making glad the heart of an old woman broken in spirit and in health, living up in the biggest and wickedest city in the North."

"Never mind," I said, "its only a trifle."

"I have seen better days, sir," he went on, "but that you will say is the stock story of the unfortunate. I put my all in a legitimate business venture, but the robbers came and ordered me to stand and deliver. I am not a coward, sir, and had they come with sand bags and gunny sacks I should have my fortune and my honor, but the scoundrels came with arms invincible, they owned a majority of the stock."

Touched to pity by the fellow's story I ventured the consolatory suggestion that a reformation was being wrought in the conscience of mankind, and that the public sentiment once aroused would slowly but surely put a period to the ruthless reign of avaricious wealth.

"May God will," he rejoined, "that such mild agencies as you mention may work the ends you contemplate but a force more certain swift and dreadful pursues the same ends."

My astonished silence queried him and he answered, "Desperation, sir, a force that must at last transcend all bounds and over its broken barriers leap in wild confusion."

"Through what instruments will that force discover itself?" I asked. "Through men, sir. Just as the seething thundering bowels of the earth find holes through which they move, will a desperate social ferment cast up men fit instruments to restore an equilibrium."

"From what points of the bubbling social caldron do you expect such characters to rise?" I asked.

"They have risen already, sir."

In a large city of the North, where the wretchedness of the populace is greater, a few small tradesmen, whom the accused rebate system was fast driving to the wall, were holding a council. A small thin man entered the council room. He was not a tradesman, but a student—an adviser of men and affairs. He possessed foresight, courage and daring. He figured in colossal collisions.

The small thin man (I am for obvious reasons calling no names said the tramp) was called to the rostrum. "I am," he began, "going to waste no time diagnosing the disease. Every school boy knows that the brazen aggressions of wealth is the well-spring of all the wretchedness of the industries poor of this land but the remedy, are you ready to hear it? (cries of we'll hear it, we'll hear it) Let me prepare your minds a trifle. Is the lightning that cleaves the clouds and rends sometimes our stately church spires, and leveling perchance the suppliant worshippers at the altar, a necessity to restore the equilibrium in the aerial depths? (cries of it is, it is) Is the wasteful American, leveling alike the princes castle, a necessity to restore to purity and sweetness the air we breathe? (cries of it is, it is) Is the rumbling thundering earthquake, burying large areas in volcanic cinders, enquiring low lying coasts in tidal waves and entombing cities in rotten lava, a necessity to restore stability to the physical Earth? (cries of it is, it is) It is, it is, eh? Hear me! If you are not cowards, curs, afraid to die, or fools who cannot understand human life is a thing of price stay till I am done, then resolve to do or not to do. The sluggish waters were slowly surely wearing away the Hell Gate rocks, but bold engineers conceived and Hell Gate was not. (cries of plant your charge we'll touch the fuse). From upholstered chairs for you would train your glasses upon the receding hurricane. Is this your part? (cries of command you our obedience) Well said. I'll have you be the powder kegs and perish in the good you do. But first I will answer some questions that you have a right to ask. Dear as life is, it has a price or else the scaffold is a mockery. It is not for vengeance but to protect the State that men are hung. You have been only robbed and by the law robbers may not be hung. But it is strangely true that the men who robbed you make the laws by which they may not be hanged. The wisdom of enlightened ages is not that for robbing alone men should not be hung, and I grant the doctrines sound. But to kill the unborn child is murder by the law and yet the surgeon, uncured, spares the mother's life at such a price. Brutus dagger wounded not the breast of Caesar, whom he loved, but pierced, as Brutus thought, the heart of tyranny. If I counsel the daggers pierce, it is not into the breast of kings, of those who rule by law, but of those above the law—the kings of trade—who with their luxuries purchase the wretchedness of millions of my countrymen. Mind is not matter, but how like it in the laws that govern it.

The soft cool breezes, with ever-changing currents, blow, but anon the fearful hurricane must adjust their equilibrium. We would banish the hurricane as we would banish reign of terror, but such are the mysterious laws under which we are governed that joyful birth comes only after a painful travail. There is no malice in the work I destine for you to do. The public conscience, like the slumbers of the night, can be aroused only by the ghostly and terrible. The captains of the land piracy that has grown up within the last century are not worse than their wretched victims, but their accident to success mark them for awakening the natural conscience to the equal rights of sober and industrious citizens to an equitable share in the national wealth. I need scarcely assure you that this work calls for volunteers who are prepared to heroically pay the penalty for their conduct provided by the laws of the land which cannot, in the very nature of things, take cognizance of revolutionary necessity."

The reign of terror in France was a mournful example of the failure of those in authority to hear the angry thunder cries of the approaching storm. More recently in Russia public justice slumbered till the flashing sword and thundering bomb awoke it from its drowsy caoch. A neglected pin scratch is the occasion of grave faced surgeons gathering around the operating table. But waste no tears that the patient neglected so slight a wound. Such has been the shortsightedness a man since history began to his folly.

"An organization was effected that night," said the tramp to me, "That has now enlisted members in every part of the country. They are not anarchists. No violence toward officers of the State, high or low is contemplated. A reasonable time will be given for an effective development of the reform spirit that has recently manifested itself in various parts of the country, but unless the obvious evils of our industrial system are corrected, the national cawcious will be aroused by a series of horrors without a parallel in the history of mankind."

The unfortunate fellow lit his pipe and pursued, with weary step, his purposeless Journey, leaving me to wonder how much or little of truth there was in his story. J. H. T.

DAKOTA'S ANCIENT PRESS

Armor Herald Printed on Hand Press Century Old.

[New York World.]

Editor Dana of the Armor (S. D.) Herald declares that the old Washington hand press upon which the first newspapers of Iowa, Minnesota and Dakota were printed is still doing service in the office of the Erwin (S. D.) Herald.

He is positive that it served to make the impressions of the Dakota Democratic, the first paper published in Dakota territory at Sioux Falls in 1858.

The newspaper office was raided by Indians in 1862 and the fate of the press was unknown until 1882, when it was rescued from a scrap heap at Mitchell, S. D. It was taken to Howard, the same territory and here Editor Dana made its acquaintance, for he pulled the lever for several years while publishing the Howard Democrat.

He believes it to be over 100 years old.

No Sincerity.

There is no sincerity in what Democratic speakers and organs say on Tariff. They have no definite intentions. They urge Republicans to go into anything labeled reciprocity, yet cannot give anything beyond the bare word. Specifications and details are unknown to them and unknown to anybody. If coal or leather advances in price the Democratic cry is, "Take off the duty and all will be well." In the coal crisis three years ago the duty of sixty-seven cents a ton was suspended, and even people in the seaports failed to derive any benefit from the change.

The foreign price was marked up to cover the reduction. A reckless, chaotic opposition is that of the Democratic party against Protection. Results to business are ignored if only the Republican line can be penetrated and confused. Formerly the Democratic party demanded a Tariff for revenue only.

Now it hews at reciprocity and yet admits that the South, its stronghold for votes, is entirely willing to retain its own share of Protection along with the rest of the Republican prosperity.

The Cub Reporter Scores.

[Kansas City Journal.]

This story is told of a cub reporter on his first assignment on a daily. He handed in the following: "A man killed a dog belonging to another man." The son of the man whose dog was killed proceeded to whip the man who killed the dog of the man he was the son of. The man who was the son of the man whose dog was killed was arrested on complaint of the man who was assaulted by the son of the man who was assaulted by the son of the man whose dog the man who was assaulted had killed."

To The Republican Readers:

With this issue of THE REPUBLICAN my name will be associated as one of the editors. About seventeen years ago I presided at the birth of this paper and nursed the youngster until it could stand alone. During the years of my absence, I have at all times felt a keen interest in its welfare, and a just pride in its success. Under the efficient management of Mr. Smith and his predecessors it has taken front rank among the county papers of the State. With the introduction of needed improvement in our mechanical department we hope to make it still better. We realize that Hartford and Ohio county are on the eve of a Commercial prosperity heretofore unknown. It is our ambition that this paper shall be a potent factor in the general uplift, which is to place our people in position to reap the advantages to which our natural resources entitle them. To this end we invite a continuance of your confidence and support.

Respectfully,
C. M. BARNETT.

STRANGE that any lawyer at Hartford, who expects to remain here, should favor the new county.

It is pleasing to know that the next oldest daughter of the President will not be at a marriageable age during this Administration.

At a dinner, given Wednesday, by the doctors of Hartford to visiting brethren from the county, 13 sat at the table. If anything serious happens, we have cleared our skirts, for we suggested that the editor be invited.

We are fond of the Republicans of the Second Congressional District, but we have attachments in the Fourth that we would dislike to sever. It is to be hoped the Legislature will let well enough alone. It might be worse.

THE Herald is disturbed because the Fiscal Court recently raised the salaries of County Judge, County Attorney and School Superintendent, a total of $400 per year. It is also distressed because, upon a showing made by the officers of Williams Coal Company, the County Judge relieved it of a $10,000 raise in assessment made by the Board of Supervisors. This same raise was taken off by the Board itself last year, upon hearing evidence. We presume the Herald does not want any injustice done Ohio county corporations. If it is a good home paper, it must want to see them treated in a fair and impartial manner, so that capital will be encouraged to come, rather than driven away from us. The present salaries are none too high for good officials. Any salary is too much for poor ones. It is the poorly paid servant who is most tempted to graft. But the Herald wants to know "where these salaries are to come from." Well, if we have any more iron bridges to build, it can be saved from some corporation which does business in the State of Ohio, instead of Ohio county. This amount ($400) could be saved in the construction of one abutment, or one item of interest. In this connection we call the attention of the Herald to the statement of Ohio county's financial condition January 1, signed by one Republican and one Democrat, printed on our first page. It will furnish food for many days silent and prayerful thought. It may lessen your inclination to jump on the new court. It will be time enough to do that four years hence.

INSTEAD of looking after the interests of the people, devising laws to equalize taxation and bring immigration and capital to our State, our Democratic Legislature is sitting up nights scheming to smother Republican votes. There are three favorite ways to accomplish this all-important end. First, by disfranchisement. Second, by destruction or theft of ballots, and ballot boxes. Third, by shifting Republican territory. The first plan is becoming unpopular. The second is dangerous, especially in national elections, where the Federal Court has jurisdiction of election offenses. So, the third plan is being used in the present "time of need." For years the Eleventh Congressional District has been used as a "dumping ground" for counties which persist in going Republican. Now, the Ninth District has elected a Republican by about forty majority, and of course must have help. So, a few Democratic counties are to be shifted from the Tenth, and in order not to endanger the Tenth, Republican counties are to be taken from it and added to the convenient Eleventh. But, the third is also in trouble, and may send William Henry Jones or A. D. James to Congress this fall unless something is done. Time and again it has been relieved by lopping off counties on the upper end to the Eleventh, but Democratic dirt has been struck in that direction. So it is proposed to put Butler in the fourth; but the Democrats of the Fourth are not willing to risk Butler with Ohio, which has of late become a "thorn in their flesh." So, Ohio is to be dropped into the Second. This is certainly a complication which calls for the best thought of the best Democratic leadership in the State, at this time. Whatever measure is finally agreed upon to remedy these evils, we submit that it is appropriate it should have inserted the "emergency" clause. Time has been in Kentucky, when under well defined principles and able leadership, efforts were made to increase the crop of Democrats. Now, they depend entirely upon a judicious distribution of the old crop. We hesitate to suggest what may happen in a few years, when, "in the course of human events," the old crop must give out.

SULPHUR SPRINGS.

Feb. 20.—People are terribly stirred up about the new county, some of the best farmers are trying to sell out and leave on account of it.

Wm. Dean, S. J. Weller and Vergie Renfrow went to Frankfort Monday.

Messrs. Claude Magan and Jesse Duke will leave for Illinois Wednesday.

Thomas Black, Hartford, was in town Saturday.

Miss Dollie White was the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. R. Johnson last week.

Judge R. Wedding and wife were in our community Sunday.

Rev. J. F. Baker left last week for Nashville, Tenn., where he will spend a few days.

Miss Effie Mitchell spent Sunday with her cousin, Miss Artie Duff.

Messrs. Wayne Boswell and Jesse Duke visited their friend Clyde Magan Monday night.

Mrs. Ada Acton visited Mrs. Cheel Wedding Monday.

BEDA.

Feb. 21.—Miss Flora Baird who has been visiting relatives near Hartford for the past week returned home Sunday.

Misses Stella and Bessie Mills who have been teaching School at Bells Run and Eastview have returned home.

Mrs. Louisa Tweddell Hartford was the guest of relatives here from Friday until Monday.

Isaac Shown, of the Washington neighborhood, died Monday and was buried at the Shown graveyard Tuesday.

Henry Bennett and son Letcher went to Hartford Monday.

Mr. Cain delivered a very interesting

Rheumatism

Is one of the constitutional diseases. It manifests itself in local aches and pains, inflamed joints and stiff muscles, but it cannot be cured by local applications. It requires constitutional treatment acting through the blood, and the best is a course of the great medicine lecture at the C. P. Church Sunday night.

Clarence Shown who is attending School at Hartford visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Ambrose Saturday and Sunday.

A Protracted meeting is in progress at Shinkle Chapel conducted by Rev. Calvert of Noreek.

W. G. Bennett and daughter Miss Esther visited relatives at Hartford Monday.

J. I. Bennett went to Owensboro Tuesday with a wagon load of chickens.

Ben Bennett who has been very ill is improving.

The A. S. of E. met here Saturday evening a large crowd was present and representatives from Clear Run, Buford and Hefflin delivered some very interesting addresses.

Messrs R. L. Paris and C. K. Carson left Monday for Oklahoma.

Sunday School will be organized at the C. P. Church in the near future.

Henry Pirtle of near Hartford was in our town Monday.

Mr. Cooper who is receiving tobacco here visited his family at Beaver Dam last week.

Mrs. Ambrose Miller is much improving at this writing.

Mrs. S. A. Bennett is no better.

NARROWS.

Feb. 21.—Willie Lewellen left Tuesday night for Oklahoma.

Tarleton Loyd, of Barretts Ferry, and Miss Callie Shultz, of this place, were married here Sunday. Rev.

Joseph Acton administered the sacred rite.

Messrs. Virgil Renfrow, Jack Weller and Will Dean, of Dundee, and Andy Crowe, of this place, went to Frankfort Monday to join the delegation protesting the creation of the new county.

Subscriptions to the fund for building the tobacco warehouse here have reached a point that insures the building of the structure, and the articles of incorporation will be filed in the County Court Clerk's office Friday. Narrows is in the center of the largest tobacco growing community in Ohio county, practically every farmer being a tobacco grower, and the location of a warehouse here is particularly appropriate. The house will be 58x120 feet, four stories including the basement which will be built of brick. A boiler and equipment for steam heat will be installed.

C. C. Carter, of this place, has two original land grants from the Commonwealth of Virginia signed by Gov. Patrick Henry. The tracts conveyed lie on the north side of Rough Creek here, and each grant was for 2,000 acres, one bearing date Dec. 2, 1785, to Isaac Winston, and the other 22 day of May, 1786, to William Meriwether. The grants were made at Richmond, then the Capital of Virginia, of which Kentucky was at that time a part. The grants set fourth that the land conveyed was in Jefferson county, Virginia. The ink on these ancient documents is well preserved.

A NUTMEG NATIONAL BANK

Story of How Young Man Started in Business on "Hot Air," Kiting Checks to Even Pay Their Month's Rent, and Some of These Very Men Have Been Successful and Have Made Independent Fortunes?

How many men have started in business on "hot air," kiting checks to even pay their month's rent, and some of these very men have been successful and have made independent fortunes? Then, again, how many have failed to make good? Of the average American business men seven out of one hundred only are successful, the other ninety-three go to the wall.

But who ever heard of a national bank being started on "hot air"? But one was started in a prosperous town in Connecticut and is now one of the most successful in the Nutmeg State. The head of the bank was a "hustler," who formerly had been cashier of another bank in the same place, but who, on account of some disagreement with the directors, had resigned his position. He knew every business man and farmer of means in the neighborhood and he was known by them in turn to be a very shrewd and trustworthy man.

After resigning the original cashiership he resolved to start the new bank under a national charter, with himself, of course, as cashier, and the way he started it was unique and amusing. When he approached a person for a subscription to the stock of the new bank and the person was invariably one whose credit was A1, he first said: "Now, my dear boy, I do not want a single dollar in cash from you; all I want is your note at three, six and nine months." And these he would get discounted at a Boston bank, which had agreed to act as the Boston correspondent of his bank.

With the proceeds of these notes the new bank would at once take out circulation, and when the notes became due the bank would take them up and the makers would renew them as long as they pleased at the new bank. The scheme worked to a charm, that cashier had no trouble in negotiating the notes of the subscribers to the bank stock, and with the proceeds at once purchased government bonds and took out national bank note circulation, so that when the notes for the bank stock fell due he had the cash on hand to pay them off and to renew them for the makers at the newly-started bank.

Each subscriber to the bank stock, too, finding the project likely to be a success, began to take personal interest and pride in the institution, and not only deposited his own surplus funds in it, but induced neighbors and acquaintances to do likewise.

Within two years the bank began to pay dividends and to-day there is no more flourishing institution in Connecticut. That bank was virtually started on "paper and hot air."

Ownership of Extracted Teeth.

It is well known that a corpse is not property, but what about an extracted tooth? So far as we know the point has not arisen in the courts of this country. At Gera, in Germany, however, it has just been decided that the tooth still belongs to the man after it has left his jaw. The dentist contended that a tooth evicted from occupancy with the full consent of its landlord became ownerless and derelict and as the particular tooth in question was curiously shaped he proposed to keep it. But the patient also wished to have it. And the patient won.—Fall Mall Gazette.

Wheat Exports from Argentina.

Argentina's exports of wheat for the calendar year 1905 exceed 113,000,000 bushels, compared with about 93,000,000 bushels in 1904, which up to that time exceeded all previous records. The new crop, which is about to be harvested, is expected to prove much larger than the last, and exports for the coming year may reach 130,000,000 bushels or so. Evidently that country is undergoing a rapid development and may very soon permanently supersede the United States in the world's grain trade.

ISRAEL PUTNAM'S COURAGE

Went Into Cave After Wolf Which Even Bloodhounds Had Refused to Follow—Kills Animal.

In 1743 there flourished in the wilderness of eastern Connecticut, where now smile the trim, stone-fenced fields of Windham county, a she wolf fierce as the beast of Gevaudan, says Lynn Tew Sprague, in Outing. If tradition says true, this monster pursued travelers, and on occasion ate children as children eat sweets. But one killed in early winter she killed certain sheep belonging to a hardy young farmer named Israel Putnam. In the new-fallen snow Israel and his neighbors tracked the beast to her den, a cavern deep, long and narrow under the rocky hills. Dogs were given the scent, but declined combat; even a savage bloodhound belonging to Putnam turned tail. But Israel was a man of indelible purpose, with nerves of steel. With a rope around his waist, a torch in one hand and an old flintlock in the other, he entered the cave himself. In the further end of the dark winding passage flamed a pair of savage eyes. There was a report of the old flint-lock, a savage growl, a last spring, a hand-to-claw struggle with the expiring brute. Then Israel's neighbors drew out the wounded hero, holding the dead beast by the throat.

Useful Animal.

Ox bones have a considerable value. The four feet of an ordinary ox will make a pint of neat's-foot oil. The thigh bone is the most valuable, being useful for getting into toothbrush handles. The foreleg bones are made into collar buttons and parasol handles. The water in which the bones are boiled is reduced to glue, while the dust which comes from sawing the bones is turned into food for cattle and poultry.

IS TWO ANIMALS IN ONE.

Half a Chameleon May Be Wide Awake and the Other Asleep—Eyes Independent.

To all appearances, and according to the researches of those best capable of forming an opinion on the subject, the nervous centers in one lateral half of the chameleon go on independently of those on the other, and it has two lateral centers of perception—sensation and motion—besides the common one in which must reside the faculty of concentration, says Scientific American.

The eyes move independently of one another and convey separate impressions to their respective centers of perception. The consequence is that when the animal is agitated its movements resemble those of two animals, or rather perhaps two halves of animals glued together. Each half wishes to go its own way and there is no concordance of action.

The chameleon, therefore, is the only four-legged vertebrate that is unable to swim; it becomes so frightened when dropped into water that all faculty of concentration is lost and the creature tumbles about as if in a state of intoxication.

When a chameleon is undisturbed every impulse to motion is referred to the proper tribunal and the whole organism acts in accordance with its decrees.

The chameleon, moreover, may be fast asleep on one side and wide awake on the other. Cautiously approach it at night with a candle so as not to awaken the whole animal at once, the eye turned toward the light will open, begin to move, and the corresponding side to change color, whereas the other side will remain for a longer or shorter time in a torpid, motionless, and unchanged state, with its eye fast shut.

Abraham Lincoln.

(Philadelphia Inquirer.)

Almost one hundred years have passed since there was born in a log cabin in Kentucky a babe with apparently little hope of future prominence even in a republic where every human being has a chance. It is not likely that there will ever be a repetition of circumstances which would make an Abraham Lincoln possible nor is it to be expected that humanity will produce many such specimens with the potentialities contained in

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, hear failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both free by mail, Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

The longer humanity studies the career of Abraham Lincoln the more it stands amazed at what the man accomplished. This feeling is not confined to America but extends to the whole civilized world. It is hardly possible to penetrate any civilization of the most magnificent sort without finding that the impression of the Kentuckian has been for powerful good. Even in the heart of Africa the name of Lincoln is known while other men of more fame in certain directions are never heard of.

What led the boy, the young giant, the lawyer and the thinker on to his goal? It is easy to say that it was the work of Providence, but we all know that Providence has a way of working through human agencies in a most mysterious way. We suppose that no one will deny that the success of Lincoln was due to the fact that he was dominated by moral ideas. He was no Calvinist no Puritan, no stickler for conventional ideas or expressions. He had his mind set upon a cast and he never failed to risk the hazard of the die. That he is commonly known as the friend of the negro is apt to hurt his fame. He was the particular friend of no class, no race or sect. He loved humanity in the large. He had no prejudices, except in favor of liberty. He had no antagonisms, except against all evil doers. He simply refused to make fish of one and flesh of another and fowl of a third sort of human beings.

Washington was an American, and in many respects he has no rival in the affections of the American people, but the warmest admirer of the Father of his Country must admit that he was not so much a native product as a result of British forces turned to American uses. No comparisons are necessary, but on this, natal day, we all feel that we are better in every sense because Abraham Lincoln lived and worked and died for his country.

Partisan Politics Nearing End.

(Central City Republican.)

The elections in Kentucky last November, while the most fraudulent in the history of the State if all reports be true, will not be without its influence for good. When a people become so thoroughly wedded to a political party that they will vote for a "yaller-dog" in preference to any one of an opposite party it is necessary to resort to heroic measure in order to open their eyes to the dangers they are hastening their own interests into.

The rank and file of the Democratic party no more sanction the frauds perpetrated all over the state and ratified by the State Legislature than do the Republicans who have been swindled out of their just rights.

The history of all political parties show that as they become powerful they become corrupt, the more powerful the greater the corruption. For a season they will flourish and carry things with a high hand but the people, though quiescent, are not asleep but wide awake to all that pertains to their material interests. Soon they will arouse from their apparent lethargy and bury deep in oblivion the party grafters who have been fattening on their credulity and party fealty. Mr. Lincoln never uttered a more cogent aphorism than when he said: "You can fool all of the people part of the time and part of the people all the time but you can't fool all the people all the time." Partisan politics naturally drift into the control of bosses who construct a machine to carry out their plans. The machine is short lived as a rule. In Kentucky, the strain put upon it was too great and it will never harvest another crop. As it was in Ohio and Pennsylvania, not a cog wheel or even the hopper will be left. Mr. Taggart has been ousted, the will of the people set aside every Republican in the State whose election is contested by a Democrat may be ousted, and if so; it will but show the desperate means the corrupt leaders of the Democratic party will resort to.

Perhaps Perhaps.

The New York cartoonists seem to think that District Attorney Jerome is too busy hunting "sassy" fleas to the neglect of bigger game. However Jerome only follows the example of the great metropolitan newspapers in this respect. The "sassy" sensation has occupied considerably more of their valuable space of late than anything else. Perhaps Jerome gauges his activities by the same yardstick that the newspapers do.

OUR NEW YORK WEEKLY LETTER

Princess Gowns—Part of Alice Roosevelt's Trousseau Purchased in New York—Oriental Art the Craze—Displayed in Jewelry, Combs, Etc.

By RENE DEVERAUX.

Of course every one is interested in Alice Roosevelt's trousseau, not only because she is the president's daughter and the most talked about girl in the United States, but because her costumes have always stood for what is correct and smart.

Of that part of her outfit which was purchased and made up in New York, the two her evening gowns, one pink, the other pale green, are of satin broche and are on princess lines.

Her wedding gown, which is, of course, the most important item of a bride's trousseau, is of white satin broche, the pattern of which is wreaths of flowers and was designed by Miss Roosevelt herself. The silk was woven in American mills, and the pattern was destroyed after the required number of yards was finished. The style of the gown is an empire princess, with an elaborate court train and a yoke of beautiful old lace which was worn by Miss Roosevelt's mother, as was the fall of lace which edges the yoke and which completes the elbow sleeves.

Her traveling dress of tan broadcloth trimmed in velvet, chiffon and soutache braid is also a princess model. A striking yellow satin evening gown, severely plain, with a pointed bodice, has an effective design of silver spangles outlining the low corsage and the bottom of the skirt.

A fetching little dinner gown of pompadour silk is one of the prettiest is of bright crimson silk elaborately hand embroidered in gold. The hand edging it is of old blue shades of silk and gold threads on a lighter blue ground, finished with a narrower white band scattered with tiny pink and green flowers. It is fastened at the neck and at the right side with tiny gold buttons and frogs of red silk cord and is lined with white china silk.

While this is quite an expensive creation, its simple shape renders it delightfully adaptable and practical for home manufacture, and out of plain silks applied or hand embroidered or of soft and artistic Japanese crepe the clever home dressmaker can fashion a stunning negligee at small expense.

It is in the new jewelry accessories and bangles, however, that oriental art reigns supreme. One sees the most fascinatingly beautiful back combs, belts, necklaces, bracelets and rings richly enameled and carved in Arabian, Persian, Chinese, Egyptian and Syrian designs. They are all so exquisitely beautiful and alluring that the fair shopper seldom can resist their charm. Even my lady's toilet table revels in the mysterious cold creams, powders, perfumes and soaps of the orient, and her modern Marcelled locks give out the subtle scent that was perhaps part of the toilet of some beauteous Egyptian princess thousands of years ago.

[Our readers may have any question concerning fashions or fabrics answered by Rene Deveraux, the fashion expert, by addressing Rene Deveraux, P. O. Box 269, Madison Square, New York, inclosing stamp for reply.]

Discouraging Quest for Capital

One of Pittsburgh's bank president is a friend and most unassuming benefactor of ambitious young men. He is sympathetic when listening to cases which merit encouragement but can also dismiss an interviewer with admirable abruptness.

A youth on one occasion entered the banker's office and jovially announced that he intended going to college. He intimated that a little assistance in the matter of obtaining a scholarship would be a most convenient asset with which to start on his career.

"And to what profession do you aspire?" questioned the president, graciously.

I won't give up asserted the young man boldly until I am privileged to place after my name the letters D. D., L. L. D."

The banker turned in his chair and intimated that the interview was at an end by saying tersely:

A capital idea, sir but but one entirely beyond the resources of this bank."

All old-time Cough Syrups bind the bowels. This is wrong. A new idea was advanced two years ago in Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. This remedy acts on the mucous membrane of the throat and lungs and loosens the bowels at the same time. It expels all cold from the system. It clears the throat, strengthens the mucous membrane, relieves coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, etc. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin Bro.

Electricity From the Sky.

A late attempt to get electric power from the atmosphere is credited to M. Michkin, a Russian. A kite was sent up from a mountain near Nov-Alexandria, when it had risen a little above 100 feet sharks began to appear in the collecting apparatus at the rate of every three to five seconds, soon changing to a continuous stream. A motor was then driven by a pressure of 22,000 volts for an hour, stopping for an interval when the winds fell. The motor reached a speed of 4,700 revolutions per minute and it was concluded that loftier, with a motor designed for higher pressure, could supply considerable power.

THERE will be doings in Washington this winter, and I want to write you about them. For five years I have been in elbow touch with prominent men in public affairs and take a keen interest in writing all about them. Now permit me to send you twelve letters this year—"Snap Shots"—pen pictures of public men. The National has 120 pages of bright stories and illustrated articles from others who write authoritatively on things of to-day and to-morrow. Do you know tells the story? Come with me this winter to the White House during the receptions and functions, to the executive offices and various other departments of the government. Come with me to the Capitol on the hill and learn about matters of vital interest to every American. If you knew how much pleasure these things afford one, you would understand how we have already secured a quarter-million regular subscribers. The foremost Americans write for, and read the National Magazine. Each number contains new and interesting portraits and personal sketches of men and women prominent in public affairs. High grade novels head the National's 1906 Fiction List—stories that breathe the spirit of to-day. The Home Department's "Little Helps" are rapidly becoming famous for their boiled-down, common-sense usefulness to house-keepers. Charles Warren Stoddard, in Literary Affairs; Dallas Lore Sharpe, on Nature Study; Robert Edgren, on Sports; Poultney Bigelow, on Foreign Affairs; Frank Putnam, on American Politics; Senators Allison, Procter and Bailey, Vice-President Fairbanks, Congressman Cooper, McCleary,—and many other prominent men are among the contributors of the National Magazine for 1906. Send on your subscription, $1.00 for the year. The National Magazine is not included in any periodical combination—it stands alone.

The "Heart Throb" Book

LAST year we advertised for "Heart Throb" contributions. All sorts of clippings that had appealed to the people were sent to us. We wanted to know what makes sunny days enduring and dark days endurable. We paid in cash $10,000 in 840 prize awards. These contributions now printed in book form, over 400 pages, are the favorite gems of President Roosevelt, the late Secretary Hay, Speaker Cannon, and other celebrities: also thousands of selections from new subscribers. The awards were made by Admiral Dewey and Senator Allison. This book is unique; a rare volume—just the thing for a friendship gift. In addition to the other attractions in this volume, the last 32 pages are left blank, arranged so that your selections may be added by either writing or pasting on the blank pages, from time to time, pieces you wish to preserve. The first edition has been nearly sold, so those who would avoid waiting for the second edition should order now. Fill out the attached coupon and send it in at once. Books shipped in the order of coupons received. Price $1.50.

gowns in the wedding outfit. This exquisite silk, with its delicate pastel shades, is one of the most popular of the spring fabrics.

Another dinner gown is a black net over taffeta, with a full skirt and elbow sleeves.

Perhaps the most unique article of Miss Roosevelt's trousseau is an exquisite hand embroidered Japanese tea gown made from a shawl presented to her by the empress of Japan. Among her negligees she also numbers several Chinese coats and Japanese kimonos, splendid with rich silk and gold embroidery.

This craze for the oriental has quite captured feminine fancy, and the most gorgeous Japanese kimonos, Chinese mandarin robes and the short three-quarter Chinese coats, hand embroidered in gold and brilliant silks, ranging in price from $20 up into the hundreds, are in great demand. They have even been pressed into service as opera coats, and at the theater their rich coloring stands out in artistic relief among the white, gray and more somber hued conventional theater wraps.

ROYAL Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

A GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR BAKING POWDER

It makes the most delicious and healthful hot breads biscuit and cake

FREE FROM ALUM, LIME OR PHOSPHATIC ACID

Alum baking powders are unhealthful. Do not use them for raising food under any circumstances. So detrimental are alum baking powders considered, that in most foreign countries their sale is prohibited. In many States in this country the law compels alum powders to be branded to show that they contain this dangerous acid, while in the District of Columbia, Congress has prohibited the sale of all food that contains alum.

Alum baking powders are sold to consumers at from 10 cents a pound to 25 ounces for 25 cents, or 25 cents a pound, and when not branded may generally be distinguished by their price.

with L. H. Webb.

Messrs. Howard and Johnson joined our local A. S. of E., Saturday night.

As there has not much Equity news from Nocreek in the paper for some time, I thought I would try and write something for our local, we are progressing nicely. Last Saturday night was our regular meeting there were quite a number present. But the weather being so bad a great many stayed at home. I think the farmers should be encouraged for the good the A. S. of E., has already accomplished in two years of its existence and the greater good that needs to be, and that might be accomplished if we could only induce all farmers to unite with us is our efforts to promote our own and the public welfare. Some outsider may ask in this question do you think you derive enough benefit from the A. S. of E., to pay for the trouble and expense. In reply we should say the principles of the order are right, and all farmers should belong to the A. S. of E., whether we ourselves derive any direct benefit or not. But let us now talk about its advantage to the farmer in a principal way, for I think the surest way to reach all people, is through their pocketbook, that sounds hard but is it not truth, and bible truth too, for does the bible say, be delighted in business, not slothful and does not that mean to use our best judgment in looking after our business affairs. But do we, is the question in the matter of the work of sowing, reaping and harvesting, we do, but when the grain is garnered and the stock ready for market do we have any voice in saying how much it is worth or what we should receive in return for our land and our labor, no, some one else sets the price and says how our products must be weighed and sold. We have no voice in the matter, the board of trade sets the price, gambling on the products of the farmers labor, But does the farmer derive any benefit, no indeed, we never hear of a grower of grain receiving a million or two from the rapid rise in the price of his grain, it is always some one who never sowed reaped or thrashed a bushel of grain in his life. His acquaintance reaches no farther than the stock exchange. The same may be said of other crops and our live stock, how many stock buyers are there within a radius of ten miles they never raise feed or care a hoof? Yet they live from the sale of the same getting there living off the farm so to speak. Have farmers not brains enough to send their own stock to market shall we continue on in this way? Our American homes are the backbone of the nation if they are endangered by the increasing power of monopoly is it not time to pause and look over the situation, promise cannot do much nor can one local, but the united effort of all may sweep great evils from our land as slavery was swept.

FREE TRIP TO MAMMOTH CAVE.

Offered By The Republican to School Boys of Ohio County.

Our Readers Will Name the Most Popular Boy in Each Magisterial District.

How many persons in Ohio county have seen the Mammoth Cave? Situated less than 100 miles from us, it is visited every year by people from every land, as one of the seven wonders of the world. Doubtless many of our readers have been embarrassed when in other States, they were asked to describe the wonderful Kentucky Cave and were compelled to admit, to the utter astonishment of the questioner, that they have never seen it. To contribute somewhat toward this necessary part of the boys education, the management of this paper has decided to inaugurate a pilgrimage to the cave for the first week in September of this year, and seven school boys, one from each Magisterial district in Ohio county, between the ages of 12 and 20 will be given the trip free of charge accompanied by one of the editors.

OUR PLAN.

Every school boy in Ohio county who was not less than 12 nor more than 20 years old January 1, 1906, will be entitled to be voted for. The candidate receiving the largest number of votes cast for any one in his district will be entitled to the trip. Every candidate must reside in the district from which he is named, and the right is reserved to withdraw the offer in any district from which only one is nominated. Every year's subscription to THE REPUBLICAN of $1.00, whether arrears or advance, will entitle the subscriber to 10 votes, and six months subscription to 5 votes. The names of candidates with number of votes received to date will be published each week. No employee or member of the family of any one connected with this paper will be eligible as a candidate. Persons sending votes by mail, will please cut out and use the following ballot:

THE DISTRICTS.

The seven Districts are made up of territory as follows:
DISTRICT No. 1.—East and West Hartford, East and West Beaver Dam, and Prentiss voting precincts.

DISTRICT No. 2.—Cromwell, Select, Arnold, Rosine, and Horse Branch voting precincts.

DISTRICT No. 3.—Sulphur Springs, Narrows, Olaton and Magan voting precincts.

DISTRICT No. 4.—East and West Fordsville, Aetnaville, Shreve, Ralph and Herbert voting precincts.

DISTRICT No. 5.—Beda, Hefflin, Buford and Bartletts voting precincts.

DISTRICT No. 6.—Centertown, Ceralvo, Smallhous and Point Pleasant voting precincts.

DISTRICT No. 7.—North and South Rockport, McHenry, Render, and Cool Springs voting precincts.
